

Eggplant Marinara Bites

(Yields 25-30 bites)

Ingredients

1-2 pounds baby/mini eggplants or thin Japanese eggplants, sliced into 1/4" disks
Salt and pepper
1 egg
1 tablespoon heavy cream (or use full fat canned coconut milk/cream for dairy free)
1 cup almond flour (or use plain crushed pork rinds for nut free)
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon onion powder

1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
1/3 cup olive oil, plus more if needed for frying
1 Jar Eat Happy Kitchen Tomato Basil Marinara, heated
Small basil leaves, for garnish
Freshly grated parmesan, for garnish (optional)

Directions

Place eggplant slices on a paper towel lined baking tray. Season lightly with salt and pepper on both sides of slices. Let eggplant "sweat" for 10 minutes, meaning the salt will draw some beads of water out of the eggplant. Dab the eggplant dry before the next step.

In a small mixing bowl, whisk together egg and heavy cream until mixed and pale yellow. In a second mixing bowl, whisk together almond flour, garlic powder, onion powder, dried oregano and dried basil. Heat olive oil in a non-stick sauté pan until hot and shimmering. Do the sizzle test: sprinkle a bit of the almond flour mix into the hot oil, and if it sizzles, the oil is hot enough for frying.

Dredge eggplant slices in egg/cream mixture, then roll into almond flour to coat. Place eggplant slices in hot oil, starting at the twelve o'clock position, and place clockwise in pan. Let cook 2-3 minutes per side, until browned, then gently flip eggplant slices, starting at the twelve o'clock position and working your way around the pan clockwise and cook other side 2-3 minutes until brown, being careful not to burn. Remove slices from pan to drain on a paper towel lined plate. Fry a second batch of remaining slices, adding additional olive oil to pan if needed.

Prepare bites: place eggplant slices on platter. Dollop a teaspoon of Eat Happy Kitchen Marinara on each bite, flattening a bit with spoon. Garnish each bite with a basil leaf and optional freshly grated parmesan. Serve.